

The Income Tax Act – An Overview of Circumstances Requiring Business Valuations

May 27, 2015

12:00 PM – 1:15 PM

Presentation Overview

The CICBV is pleased to present a discussion on the Income Tax Act and what circumstances would require a business valuation, featuring Justin Abrams, Manager of Taxation at Kraft Berger LLP. Topics to be addressed include an overview of the more common, as well as the lesser known reasons, as to why a professional business valuation is required by the Income Tax Act. Becoming a non-resident of Canada, being a beneficiary of a trust, the death of a taxpayer, general estate planning basics and divisive reorganizations, are just some of the many reasons why professional valuations are required. This session will help to clearly explain the multitude of tax driven requirements for professional business valuations.

Presenter

Justin Abrams, CPA, CA – Manager of Taxation, Kraft Berger LLP

Justin Abrams is a Senior Manager at Kraft Berger LLP and has been at that position since 2013 (from 2006-2013, Justin was at Deloitte LLP), specializing in private company taxation, including corporate restructuring, estate planning, corporate and personal compliance and trusts. Although the main focus of his practice is on private companies, Justin also has a breadth of expertise with respect to the taxation of public companies, including the preparation and review of provisions under IFRS, cross-border taxation planning/restructuring and compliance. At Deloitte Justin was a member of the M&A taxation team since 2011 and has worked extensively in this field on a number of high-dollar, high profile projects.

Justin has also completed parts I, II and III of the CICA In Depth taxation program and has tutored the Part I CICA In Depth Program in 2012, 2013 and 2014 (and is teaching again in 2015). Justin also lectures across Ontario to speak to Medical Professionals with respect to the incorporation and tax management of their businesses.

Justin is a valued member of his taxation group and is sought after as a resource for technical, organizational and managerial expertise.
